1 Introduction and Background

1.1 Introduction

The National Transport Authority (Authority) is a State body set up under statute in 2009. From 01 January 2011, it assumed responsibility for the regulation of the small public service vehicle (SPSV) sector, i.e. taxis, wheelchair accessible taxis, hackneys, wheelchair accessible hackneys, local area hackneys and limousines, together with their drivers, owners and associated services. At 31 December 2015, a total of 21,146 SPSVs were licenced to the Irish fleet; 17,488 were taxis and wheelchair accessible taxis with c.70% of those in the Greater Dublin Area. At 31 December 2015, there were 27,440 SPSV drivers licensed to provide public transport services across the country.

1.2 Background

In January 2012, the Report of the Taxi Regulation Review Group was published on foot of a wide ranging review carried out in line with a Government decision of June 2011. The Review Group, which was convened and chaired by the then Minister for Public and Commuter Transport, Alan Kelly T.D., included dispatch operators, drivers, vehicle owners and consumers as well as Government Departments and regulatory and enforcement agencies. The aim of the review was to allow consumers to have confidence in the taxi system while also ensuring that legitimate and competent operators and drivers could be rewarded fairly by operating under a regulatory framework that is adequately enforced.

Action 13 of the Report of the Taxi Regulation Review Group states:

“To design, for consultation with the industry, a new taxi roof sign that is more compact, is subject to restricted availability from authorised suppliers, and can display a greater level of information for consumer and compliance improvements. Consideration will be given to the use of electronic displays as part of the roof sign and the future-proofing of the sign to link with future developments in the area of taxi technology.”

This consultation on taxi roof signs is in response to the recommendation of the Taxi Regulation Review Report.

2 Consultation on Taxi Roof Signs 2015

2.1 Purpose and Process

The purpose of the consultation was to elicit the views of the SPSV industry, stakeholders and general public on the appetite for introducing a smaller taxi roof sign design, together with introducing restricted availability through authorised suppliers only.

Submissions and views were invited from the industry, public and other stakeholders by way of newspaper advertisement, SPSV Industry Update and website publications on 07 August 2015 in relation to this consultation on new taxi roof signs. The closing date for receipt of submissions was 18 September 2015.

2.2 Approach

Certain considerations were put forward to direct the discussion as follows:

A new roof sign design could range from a simple static informational roof sign through to an interactive electronic roof sign that displayed only data pulled from the live SPSV register held by the Authority via mobile communication links. This latter concept offers potential for a “real time, live location” feature to benefit driver and passenger safety.

The design of any new roof sign for use on taxis in Ireland would need to consider the following:

- Size and impact on vehicle fuel consumption;
- Cost;
- Information to be displayed on sign;
- Visibility of sign information during day time and night time hours;
- Use of technology including electronic displays;
- Consistency of appearance and quality;
- Durability;
- Vehicle fixing; and
- Supply arrangements and level of supply control.

3 Consultation Response

3.1 Submissions Received

A total of 2,565 submissions were received, including three late submissions.

97.3% of the submissions received did not consider that a new design of taxi roof sign was required. 2.7% of the submissions received considered that a new design of taxi roof sign was required and some provided opinion on that design.

A list of all those who made submissions is referenced in Appendix A. A total of 2,353 hand delivered submissions received were identical but signed individually. A copy of this submission is at Appendix B. Repeat identical submissions by the same individual were excluded.

3.2 Issues Raised in Submissions

All 2,565 submissions were reviewed by the Authority and the issues raised were categorised, summarised and analysed. In total, 70 (2.7%) of the submissions were generally in favour of a new taxi roof sign design. 2,495 submissions (97.3%) were against the concept of making changes in this regard.

A total of 4 core issues were identified during this review process. The main category headings and the number of times the issues were raised under each category heading are summarised in Tables 1 and 2 below.

Table 1 – Core Issues raised in submissions

Category Headings		Number of Times Raised
Cost and Financial Impact	Concern over potential negative financial impact on SPSV Operators	2,388
	Fuel savings sufficient with sideways permission regulated for currently	2,354
	Concern over vehicle resale value, with holes drilled in vehicle roof	1
Safety	Design a distress signal in roof sign for drivers	8
	Current signs can detach on motorway in winds	2
Size	No benefit to public or operator to reducing size	2,354
	Benefit to size reduction	26
Design	Red/ Hired - Green /Available indicators	20

	Connect roof sign to taximeter Hired/Available indicators	18
	Brighter roof sign lighting	11
	Affixed by magnets only	7
	Electronic information display (with scrolling)	6
	Permanently affixed	5
	Match colour to branding palette for consistency	3
	Aerodynamic multi-positioning	3

Table 2 – Other Issues raised in submissions

Category Headings		Number of Times Raised
Non-Core Issues	Restrict to controlled authorised suppliers only	3
	Smaoinigh ar úsáid a bhaint as an focal TACSAÍ amháin (Consider the use of the word TACSAÍ only)	1
	Introduce GSM/GPS/GPRS Link to update fares automatically, track availability, control hired/available messages in line with “linked in” status remotely	6
	Abandon roof sign completely, rely on branding	2
	Incorporate roof sign into front and rear windscreen	1
	Introduce real time roof sign locational monitoring to detect “bogus” operators	1
	Integrate roof sign controls with Leapcard functionality	1
	Incorporate braille on roof sign	1
	Control WAV service provision through tracking	1
	Control licence supply through tracking and LED locational status	1
	Introduce a tachograph with the roof sign	1

In terms of issues that were raised most often, the highest common factor (2,388 instances) related to the potential financial impact on SPSV service providers. The second and third highest number of views referenced (each 2,354 times) related to (a) the fact that fuel consumption expenditure on long journeys was sufficiently addressed through current regulation and (b) that there was no real benefit to reducing the size of the current roof sign. Further issues raised are categorised in the two tables above.

4 Analysis of Core Issues

4.1 Core Issue 1: Cost and Financial Impact

The issue of the additional cost and financial impact of a new taxi roof sign design was the issue raised most frequently in the submissions – it was stated as a key concern in 2,388 submissions.

Many of the submissions identified that the industry had experienced a major downturn, with driver incomes significantly decreased. In addition, it was identified that recent regulatory changes had imposed new costs on the industry such as the requirement to apply branding to taxi doors and the introduction of vehicle age limits.

Some submissions cited that the introduction of a new roof sign was a cost that they would be unable to bear and proposed that if new signage was to be introduced, that it should be at the cost of the State.

In relation to the issue of the size of the sign and its impact on vehicle operating costs, most submissions commenting upon this aspect identified that for longer journeys this could be addressed by placing the sign longitudinally on the vehicle roof, which is already permitted under the prevailing regulations.

Some concerns were expressed over the impact of a redesigned sign which would have to be bolted to the vehicle roof and the loss in resale value of having residual holes in the roof of the vehicle.

4.2 Core Issue 2: Safety

Safety of drivers and the role that a redesigned roof sign could play in enhancing driver security was raised in several submissions.

Some suggestions made included the incorporation of a distress signal into the roof sign and the inclusion of GPS tracking capability in a redesigned sign. A light signal that could be seen by other road users was suggested.

It was also identified in some submissions that the size of the existing sign can create safety issues. It was stated that in high winds, or on wide open aspect motorways where a vehicle is being driven at speed, that the existing signs can blow off the roof of the taxi, with the potential to cause a hazard to other road users.

The existing regulations permit the roof sign to be placed longitudinally on the vehicle roof, which lowers the sign profile exposed to the wind effect, where the journey is likely to be longer than 30km.

4.3 Core Issue 3: Size of Sign

The size of the sign was addressed in close to 2,400 submissions.

Most of those submissions considered that the existing sign was size appropriate in relation to the amount of information that it displays. They further stated that there would be no benefit to the general public or to operators in reducing the size of the taxi roof sign.

Some submissions were concerned that a smaller type sign would reduce the amount of information that would be displayed, which they would not support.

4.4 Core Issue 4: Design of New Sign

A number of submissions either proposed new sign types or proposed features that should be included in any new taxi roof sign.

20 respondents raised the issue of “Hired” and “Available” indicator lights. Most of these focussed on the lack of clear visibility of the hire status of vehicles with the current roof sign lighting, and stated that, particularly during daytime hours, the visibility of the existing roof lighting is poor.

The recommendation in these submissions was that the clearer visual status indicators was required, with most suggested a red/green lighting arrangement with high levels of illumination.

In terms of the means of affixing the roof signs to vehicles, some people wished to see the roof sign permanently bolted to the vehicle while others wished to continue with magnetic fixings.

In terms of alternative sign displays, many of the alternative designs proposed the incorporation of electronic information display panels, permitted scrolling screens displaying different facets of information.

All of the alternative design proposals suggested a smaller type sign than the existing taxi roof sign.

5 Summary and Conclusions

The purpose of the consultation was to elicit the views of the SPSV industry, stakeholders and general public on the appetite for introducing a smaller taxi roof sign design, together with introducing restricted availability through authorised suppliers only.

A very high level of response was received to this consultation, with a total of 2,565 submissions provided to the Authority.

The overwhelming majority of the submissions – 97.3% - did not support the adoption of a new roof sign design for taxis and wished to retain the current roof sign. Only 70 respondents were in favour of a change of the roof sign type.

The most frequently raised issue in the consultation, by 2,388 respondents, was the additional cost and financial impact on operators, referencing the additional costs introduced through recent regulatory changes.

In terms of the rationale for changing from the current taxi roof sign design, the most common problems identified with the existing roof sign was the vehicle status visibility - hired or available – and the large size of the sign versus smaller more streamlined models used elsewhere. However, these deficits were only raised in a comparatively small number of submissions.

While it is clear that a smaller sign would provide some significant benefits, particularly in status visibility and in reduced wind resistance, and would allow a more modern style to be adopted, it is considered, having regard to all of the submissions received, that a replacement of the existing roof sign should not be undertaken at the present time. However, having regard to raising the quality of service to passengers, this issue should be kept under review on a regular basis and it is likely that a change to the roof sign will be implemented at some point in the future.

Common Submission

Submission in response to public consultation on Taxi Roofsigns and Mandatory SPSV Driver Safety Equipment 2015

Action 13 of the Report of the Taxi Regulation Review Group states; To design, for consultation with the industry, a new taxi roof sign that is more compact, is subject to restricted availability from authorised supplier, and can display a greater level of information for consumer and compliance improvements. Consideration will be given to the use of electronic displays as part of the roof sign and the future-proofing of the sign to link with future developments in the area of taxi technology.

Currently the taxi roofsign I am using is the largest of any taxi fleet. The level of information outstrips that of any fleet with Taxi licence number, area of operation and dispatch companies, as well as in car credit card facilities. On longer journeys Legislation provides for the roofsign to be turned "sideways" to allow for increased fuel savings. The cost of electronic signage, to include repairs when necessary and time lost particularly at weekends due to the unavailability of roofsign providers would be a major factor in my business. With these points in view and no benefits to the consumer of a reduced size roof sign in terms of visibility I totally reject this proposal.

Action 37 of the report of the Taxi Regulation Review Group states;
In recognition of driver safety issues, a consultation process will be carried out with the industry in 2012, of the possibilities and merits of introducing a requirement for the mandatory provision of certain driver safety equipment in taxis. Potential options include;

. In-vehicle security cameras;

.A partition separating the driver front seat from the remainder of the vehicle;

.A location alert system; or

.other new technology based options."

Firstly I would like to point out that my vehicle is a private vehicle, privately financed and funded and not expressly used as a PSV vehicle. i.e. school runs, family holidays and a range of other uses. The cost of installation maintenance and third party monitoring of my private vehicle would be of major concern. Currently I am not aware of any business provider who is subject to mandatory CCTV requirements in their business and I believe it is optional. The proposal of a partition I believe would create a bad representation of both Ireland, and give visitors the opinion that they were not in a safe environment both in the car and in our cities. It would also reduce the number of seats in my vehicle and create an unpleasant atmosphere in my work space.

In summary; the costs involved regarding roofsigns, in car CCTV systems and partitions would be a major factor in my business. Of major concern to me is that these proposals on driver safety will be made mandatory. I believe new roofsigns, in car cctv monitoring will lead to a monitoring of my hours, the area of operation, and ultimately a move towards standardised vehicles with me bearing all costs involved further eroding my rights as a self-employed person. The large number of social media sites displaying uploaded CCTV without the person's knowledge has led to a number of court cases with the provider of the CCTV being sued. It is also my view that the in car information displayed on the fare card advising passengers who decide not to pay the fare, that it is an offence is in-sufficient. The courts leniency to punish offenders whether, fare evaders or in extreme cases violent assault does not act as a deterrent and I believe the NTA, and the Department of Transport should be raising this issue with the Department of Justice to provide harsher sentencing and fines to act as a deterrent creating a safer working environment for Taxi Drivers.

With these points I strenuously reject these proposals;
